

Kay M. Creasman, Esq.
Associate Counsel

Kay has at various times during her career maintained a private law practice focusing on real estate, small business matters and wills. She has owned and operated a title insurance agency and settlement company in the Richmond area. Kay has been employed by other national title insurance underwriters as counsel in Virginia and West Virginia. She has searched title in the courthouses and spoken at numerous seminars on real estate and title insurance.

At an earlier time in her career Kay was an educator of Kindergarten through 9th grade and freshmen to PhD candidates at public and private schools in Alabama, Louisiana and Virginia, including the business schools at the University of Richmond and Virginia Commonwealth University (she prefers 5 year olds and graduate students).

She received degrees from the University of Richmond law school, Tulane University, and Athens College. A Past President of Virginia Land Title Association (VLTA) and former Chairperson of the Education Committee of VLTA, Kay is scheduled to become Chairperson of the Legislative Committee of VLTA beginning June, 2008.

Working for Old Republic allows Kay to find practical answers to questions, to find reasonable ways to insure problems that might otherwise prevent settlement, and to have time for a life outside of business.
