

ORT News - Wednesday, July 29, 2015
TRID Rule Comes With Greater Need For Data Exchange

ORT News!

Warren Hill

VP & New Mexico Agency and Underwriting Manager
whill@oldrepublictitle.com
505-994-6700

TRID Rule Comes With Greater Need For Data Exchange

With the TILA-RESPA Integrated Disclosure ("TRID") Rule comes a greater need for communication and exchange of information. Old Republic Title wants to make sure you're not only prepared for the changes ahead but that you're also equipped to engage in discussions on this topic. It's important to be knowledgeable and conversant about the various means of communication as well as the terminology so that you can have conversations with your lenders and other partners in the transaction. Settlement agents will likely have to connect to multiple portals depending on specific lender...

»To continue reading TRIDBITS #9 and learn about the options for data exchange, electronic collaboration milestones, seller-only disclosure, separate settlement statements, a glossary and more, click here.

Previously-released TRIDBITS:

Volume #1, Volume #2, Volume #3, Volume #4,
Volume #5, Volume #6, Volume #7 and Volume #8.

505-994-6700
www.oldrepublictitle.com

